NOTE TO USERS:

This is a draft guide to the holdings of the National Archives' regional office located in Anchorage, Alaska. The records described herein have been formally accessioned into the legal custody of the National Archives and are, with a few exceptions, open to all researchers.

The National Archives - Alaska Region also has custody of over 6,000 cubic feet of "pre-archival" records, those records that still belong to the agency that created them and are available for research only with written permission of that agency.

Researchers should be aware that many earlier records relating to Alaska are held by the National Archives in Washington, D.C. These records are available only through research trips to Washington or by arranging for copies of desired material.

The Alaska Region also holds over 75,000 roles of microfilm, including the U.S. Federal Censuses, 1790-1920. These holdings include a large number of Alaska-specific records not held in textual format by the Region.

The Alaska Region is located at 654 West 3rd. Ave., Anchorage, which is the south side of 3rd between F and G Sts. The office is open to the public 8am - 4pm, Monday-Friday, and one Saturday a month (usually the first one). Due to staff limitations on Saturdays, no textual records are provided unless by prior arrangement. Researchers are urged to call ahead to confirm Saturday openings.

The Alaska Region can be contacted at 907-271-2441, FAX 907-271-2442, or by e-mail at archives@alaska.nara.gov
