

6. Alaska may, on the basis of the cost statement under paragraph 5 above, voucher BPR on Form PR 20 for reimbursement of the Federal (Federal-aid highway funds) pro rata share of the cost of the services rendered. BPR will make payment thereof in the usual manner as payments are made to the other States. These vouchers and other documents will be subject to the usual Federal audit procedures.

7. Alaska may augment the trust fund (to BPR) from time to time as the needs require using funds received from Federal-aid reimbursement or other Alaska funds. In this way the State's matching obligation is handled automatically.

8. Alaska may (1) request BPR to contract in the name of the Federal Government in which case contract payments will come from the trust fund and all Federal contract and labor laws will govern, or (2) request that the contract be prepared for Alaska's signature and payment of contract earnings directly by the State to the contractors, BPR merely to administer the contract and supervise the work. The latter procedure would be similar to that now used in connection with road work in National Parks and Parkways.

9. All regular Federal-aid program, project agreement and reimbursement procedures would be followed as in the other States. It does not appear that BPR would have authority to reimburse itself, in part, directly from Federal-aid highway funds, nor does such authority seem necessary.

10. BPR now provides certain services to other Federal agencies with certain of the facilities that would be transferred to Alaska. In that regard BPR will use its good offices to have the State continue furnishing such services, but this will be a matter entirely between Alaska and the affected Federal agency.

11. Prior to June 30, 1964, and under the authority of Section 34, any Federal functions apart from the Federal-aid program that might be discontinued by BPR and assumed by Alaska would be the basis for transfer to Alaska of any related property. This emphasizes the intent that transfers under Section 20(a) shall be comprehensive and complete as to everything over and above usual Federal functions that are otherwise the obligation of BPR to exercise pursuant to law in administering the Federal-aid program and direct Federal obligations.

 25 the contrary.

1 (b) The commission may, without regard to the civil-
 2 service laws and the Classification Act of 1949, employ and

Comments on H. E. Cunningham's memo of June 1, 1959 to
C. W. Enfield

Schedule A - Road Systems

1. There is no indication of how they intend to assign the book value of over $152,000,000. It is my understanding that this total includes both construction and maintenance costs.

Schedule B - Real Property

1. Memo states that complete records with legal descriptions are now available. Does this mean the legal instruments involved in the initial acquisition by either BPR or ARC. How will they handle the ~~book~~ knock-down buildings that we have classed as real property only because of the intent of use.
2. How do they intend to reconcile any differences between Region 10's records and the records of this office and the Finance Division.

Schedule C - Personalty

1. I agree with your comment that there is apparently no plan to balance out the field records and Finance's general ledger accounts.

Schedule D - Misc. Real Property

1. This is not a matter of interest to our office but it may be of interest to the Finance Division.

Why has the date of July 1, 1959 been established. Since no bill has been enacted into law and there ~~will~~ ^{will} evidently be no retroactive clause in law, the mere beginning of a new Fiscal Year should have no effect on the retention or disposal of BPR property.

To my knowledge there has been no definite determination of which BPR offices will be closed if any. If we ~~continue to~~ ^{act as agents} for Alaska after the transfer of property and functions, we will continue to require our present staff in the present locations. Consequently, I do not understand why we would want to report as excess the quarters that will be occupied by these people in Fortbanks and Anchorage.

DATE: June 1, 1959

SUBJECT: Report on Certain Matters Pertaining to Alaska Omnibus Bill

Following is a brief rundown on preparations for transition of certain BPR functions under the Omnibus Bill if enacted into law relative to Alaska Statehood. Presumption is made that final Act will conform generally to H.R. 7120.

INVENTORY

Property inventories relating to Sec. 21(a) of the Bill are proceeding according to schedule and will be ready by June 15, 1959, with provision for making them effective as of June 30, 1959; i.e., inventory of stocks and supplies to be incorporated as of latter date. Property to be retained by BPR for its own activities and functions has been separately determined and listed. Schedules for property to be transferred to State will be (tentatively) as follows:

Schedule A. Road systems. Identification of individual roads by termini, length (miles), and principal points supported by strip maps and vicinity maps. No flag trails will be included as no property interests appear involved, and no potential prescriptive rights. Pedestrian cable crossings will be included where built with ARC funds and still in existence. One tramway (Nome) is not to be included--understood to be owned by Alaska although was operated by ARC. Ferries (one remaining) will be included. No airports or airstrips are involved.

Schedule B. Real Property - buildings. This will cover all buildings and the lands they occupy. Complete records, with legal descriptions, are now available and details will be set forth in the form of individual attachments. Glennallen depot record will also show State School Board building which occupies portion of the depot grounds. Also include tank farm on Alaska RR property under lease (or easement), Valdez asphalt plant and Nome depot on leased property (10 years) subject to annual rent charge.

Schedule C. Personalty. Major breakdowns will be (1) depreciable property, (2) non-depreciable property, and (3) office furniture and supplies. These will follow current property accountability practices. Small tools and parts inventories will be identified generally such as "parts and small tools stock at Fairbanks depot". Control is by "bin" records. BPR records will show money value (as of June 30, 1959), but such figure will be omitted in inventory schedule furnished to Alaska.

Schedule D. Miscellaneous real property. Included will be such items as the Copper River Railroad right-of-way including bridges thereon and cable crossing of river. This right-of-way is available for road purposes but not yet fully utilized by any road construction.

Schedule E. Miscellaneous personalty property. Included will be such items as the rails available, or as will become available, from the abandoned Copper River Railroad. Note: Shelters along flag trails provided with ARC funds have not been carried on property records. Their locations and condition are indefinite and it is considered that such items may be disregarded.

In addition to the foregoing properties are the following items (or categories) for handling in the manner indicated, but prior to July 1, 1959:

Custody by National Defense. Tank farm now situated on Ladd Air Force Base and serviced by Army pipeline. If not permissible to use for road purposes for work performed for State, should negotiate with local post commander to take over custody and jurisdiction of tank farm.

Properties to be considered for declaration as excess. Included will be (1) one apartment building at Fairbanks and two apartment buildings at Anchorage, also (2) two lots at Palmer donated to Federal Government not needed in reference to road functions. The latter requires removal of cloud on title from overlapping descriptions, now underway through correspondence.

Sources of material for road purposes. All of these are understood to be by permits or licenses according to available records. These will be listed for separate referral to the State as a matter of record. BPR will continue to exercise its privileges in reference thereto while performing work for the State.

CONVEYANCE OF PROPERTY; CONTRACTS

Concurrently with the completion of the aforesaid inventories will be the preparation of drafts of three instruments in cooperation with the State:

1. Conveyance of the properties listed in Schedules A through E to the State of Alaska under Sec. 21(a) of the Bill.
2. Contract between BPR and State under Sec. 44(c) for BPR to perform road building and maintenance for State on reimbursable basis.

3. Grant of authority by State to BPR for BPR to have custody, control and jurisdiction over buildings, equipment and supplies necessary to carry on services and functions covered in the contract in preceding paragraph.

The foregoing documents and actions are premised on being prepared to operate entirely under Sec. 44(c) for the following principal reasons:

1. According to the language of Sec. 44(c), BPR would have no direct authority to contract with the State to perform any part of the Federal-aid program under said section until after the transfer or conveyance of the related properties to Alaska. The attachment to Mr. Allen's memorandum of May 15, 1959, to Mr. Niemi, expresses a similar view. While the language in Sec. 21, page 11, of the House Report suggests a contrary view that BPR could retain some of its property to perform functions "for which the State may contract under 44(c)", nonetheless the statement under Sec. 44(c), page 19, as to the authority of the head of a Federal agency who has transferred property to contract with the State is different and seems more consistent with the language of the Bill.

2. Unless such transfer is made before July 1, 1959, BPR will have lost certain authorities such as to maintain highways through operation of the repeal provisions, see Sec. 21(d), hence under the last clause in Sec. 44(c) which reads "of some or all of the functions authorized to be performed by it (BPR) in Alaska immediately preceding such conveyance or transfer" it would seem that such authority may not be revived. For example, if the transfer were not made until say September 30, 1959, it must be found that immediately preceding such transfer (September 29, 1959) BPR would not have the authority to maintain highways other than as may be created by Sec. 44(b) upon request of the Governor to the President. But 44(b) seems to have some hidden faults as will be discussed later.

3. Mechanics of operations under 44(c) would be relatively simple:

(a) State to advance to BPR a trust fund in sufficient amount to cover two or three months operating obligations of BPR. This money can come from transitional grant made to Alaska or from other Alaska funds.

(b) There would be charged against the Alaska trust fund BPR expenditures for F.A. work performed for Alaska under the Alaska - BPR contract, also for BPR administrative employees needed in connection therewith below the general administrative level, the latter being financed from 3-3/4 percent funds.

(c) BPR to notify State monthly of charges against the trust fund. State will voucher BPR (Form PR-20) for Federal participating share chargeable to F.A. funds accompanied with request that it be credited to aforesaid trust fund.

(d) As trust fund diminishes by State's share of costs (including non-participating BPR administrative costs), State, upon request, will replenish said trust fund, as may be necessary

(e) Regular program and project approval procedures will be followed consistent with those prescribed in the F.A. Regulations and PPMs applicable to the other States. Regular project agreement form will be used, discontinuing special Alaska form. BPR will issue usual certificate of approval of P.S. & E., even though having prepared such papers with BPR forces, which will obligate (and expend) Federal-aid funds involved.

(f) BPR can enter into commitments to the full extent of the authorized programs (under the Alaska - BPR contract) and can operate with a trust fund sufficient only for current needs and time interval for vouchering and crediting of earnings to such trust fund from regular F.A. participating funds. This will satisfy the legal prohibition against creating obligations without having the money (or contract authorization) therefor.

(g) The Alaska - BPR contract will be at the operating level (interagency) and can be readily modified from time to time as the Alaska Highway Department is able to assume more functions.

PROBLEMS UNDER SEC. 44(b)

While the Governor may request the President that BPR provide road building and maintenance services and facilities, and naturally BPR should retain necessary properties in connection therewith, funds therefor must come from the transitional grants. This does not appear to authorize BPR to create obligations against regular F.A. participating funds as they are specifically reserved for reimbursing the State; furthermore there is serious doubt if BPR has authority to contract with the State to do such work for the State, without coming under 44(c) other than as may be considered to exist under BPR appropriation acts. And as stated, 44(c) requires prior transfer of property. Therefore BPR's services or facilities under 44(b) may be limited to the amount of money made available by the President from the transitional grants.

One way, under 44(b), for BPR to get around this hurdle is to arrange for construction contracts to be entered into in the name of the State similar to what is done in the case of National Park contracts. BPR would administer such contracts, but State would make contract payments. Thereafter State would submit vouchers (PR-20) to BPR for reimbursement of Federal-aid share of cost. However, the performance of surveys, designs and maintenance would not lend itself to this arrangement and the cost thereof would likely exceed the amount of funds that the President could make directly available to BPR from the transitional grants.

Another question is whether 44(b) revives (or can continue) services or functions, such as maintenance, the specific authority for which has lapsed by repeal under Sec. 21(d). In that regard the usual language included in Commerce appropriation acts may be sufficient.

While other avenues may be explored to operate under 44(b), the foregoing strongly indicates the advisability to bring the operations under 44(c) and to do so before July 1, 1959.

LAPSING OF OTHER AUTHORITY

Sec. 21(d) will also lapse the authority to use up unexpended balances of ARC funds under Interior Appropriations, substantial sums of which are either being held in reserve pending settlement of claims or have been recently released by settlement actions. In that regard please refer to Mr. Niemi's memorandum of April 14, 1959, to Mr. Allen. Four claims are involved, one of which is before the Appeals Board. This will be covered by a separate memorandum on arrangements to protect these funds.

CONCLUSION

While much of the foregoing consists of general observations, the points are important and you may wish to comment on some of them. Meanwhile, as stated, preparations are continuing so as to be able to proceed under 44(c) if the Bill is enacted into law.

A conference was held in the Regional Engineer's office on the 29th attended by Mr. Richard Downing, Commissioner of Highway and Public Works Department, Mr. Floyd Guertin, Commissioner of Administration, and Mr. Dave Free, Attorney, all of Alaska, and Messrs. Niemi, Swick, Bales, Haag, and Cunningham of BPR. All of the foregoing matters, except expiration of ARC funds, were fully discussed in order that the State and BPR can be in a better position to proceed if and when the Bill is enacted into law.

COMMENTS: Bill, sorry to have confused the issue in our May 5 wire. We need data on buildings & land held by the BPR in Alaska other than the former ARC properties. The former Juneau Division under Region 8 has no descriptive data and/or copies of 1166. This info on the other than former ARC real property is required to complete one of the parts of the transfer document properties that will go to the State of Alaska.
